Discover Body Voltage and why you should remove it from your home

“It was only when I got the body volt meter reading down to zero that I slept properly.”

Body voltage results from leaky wiring which is exaggerated in the wooden floors of most modern bedrooms. Our senses are designed to alert us to light and noise in certain circumstances such as danger or the beginning of the day but we avoid light and noise to achieve deep sleep. Our bodies can't fully relax with electric current or voltage running through them and so where this is the case, our sleep is unnatural, some refer to it as light or agitated sleep. For most of our lives, most of us have lived like this and it is only when we eliminate this pollution from our body at night that we begin to understand how well we should have been feeling all along.

One of the most common factors of ill health today is a lack of quality sleep. A common cause of this is electrical current in the body in bed. Humans were not designed to sleep in bright light or with loud noise. The same can be said of the electrical fields which create body voltage.

Body Voltage Investigated

A pilot investigation was carried out by the Klinghardt Academy of Neurobiology in Seattle which measured two parameters of Electromagnetic pollution. Firstly Body voltage a measure of how much voltage the body builds up against ground in an environment.

The second parameter measured the effect of microwave radiation on the body.

These two parameters were measured in the sleeping location pregnant mothers. Where high levels of body voltage were found in the mother's bed, the child became autistic later in life. The body voltage measured in the sleeping position of the mother who went on to conceive an autistic child was significantly higher than the readings taken from the position of the mother who went on to bear a healthy child. The difference was so significant that they can now predict the mother who will give birth to a child who is disturbed, simply by measuring the body voltage in the sleeping position of the mother from conception.

In short most of us are aware that pregnant mothers and foetuses are more vulnerable to pollution and that microwave radiation from say a phone mast is not good for us but until now body voltage has been of most peoples radar.

The good news is you can do something about all aspects of Electromagnetic pollution. At wireless protection we have developed products to monitor each and every situation and our expert consultants will help you understand your personal scenario and show you how to shield from phone masts, clean up your dirty electricity or rid your body of voltage at night.

Our products are designed to make your life better by improving your health. In most cases people begin to feel better straight away and many see dramatic improvement in long term sickness.

At wireless protection we understand modern life and our products reflect this and are easy to install and generally don't interfere with the way you live your life. Best of all many of our products carry a money back guarantee.

Begin to understand how your home may be affecting your health, go on-line or call for one of our meter rental packages today.
